club

The Flinders University Writers' Club has been around since at least the 80s. We don't know exactly how long it's been around, because earlier records have been lost and earlier presidents have mysteriously 'disappeared'.

Pretty much every year, the club publishes a journal of creative writing. The closing date for submissions is around October each year. Flyers inviting submissions appear randomly around uni in the early months of the year, although members are invited to submit work at any time. The latest issue is titled SAMiZDAT.

The form and activities of the club are quite fluid; they change to suit each year's members, but the club holds a journal launch each year and members keep in touch via email throughout the year. Past events have included poetry readings, writing workshops and discussions, and group attendance at writing events around Adelaide.

The writers' club invites you to become a member in 2007. You are welcome to get involved as a member to attend events and to contribute to or edit the journal, or you might like to join the committee to help plan the club's activities throughout the year.

Annual membership is $3. Join at any club event.
